eSafety
Commissioner

We are excited to introduce you to a vital resource that promotes the safety and wellbeing of our children in the digital world – the Australian eSafety Commissioner. In this day and age, it is essential to equip ourselves and our children with the necessary knowledge and tools to navigate the online landscape safely.

The Australian eSafety Commissioner is an independent government agency focused on promoting online safety for all Australians, especially children and young people.

eSafety Parents

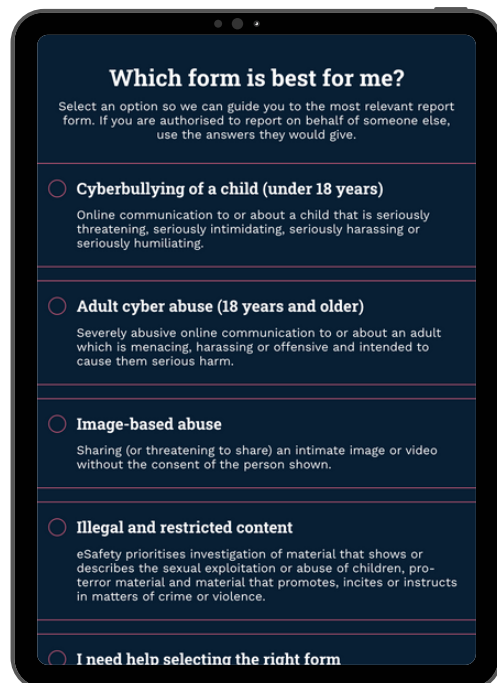

The eSafety Commissioner website has a whole collection of useful, searchable, help articles for parents. They cover topics including gaming, social media, first mobile phone, tricky conversations, parental controls and much more.

Follow them on Facebook or Instagram for timely updates.

Reporting and Removal of Harmful Content

If you and your family ever encounter a situation online where you need support, this is the place to come. They can investigate and take action against cyberbullying (children or adult), illegal content and image based abuse, providing a user-friendly reporting system.
